

I have spent much of August and September reconstructing The Goodwyns of Lynn Regis which was originally published in 1877. I was fortunate enough to acquire a signed copy which contained many hand written notes. Those notes have been reproduced, enclosed in brackets and colored as blue type: [\[hand written note\]](#).

I felt the small page count did not warrant an index, so none was added. Read the entire book – these brave men and women deserve your attention.

This reconstruction is as faithful as possible to the original, and all spelling is as in the original.

Children listings are thus:

1. Son
2. Son
1. Daughter
2. Daughter

I hope you find the enclosed information useful.

THE GOODWYNS

OF

LYNN REGIS, NORFOLK:

BY

MAJOR HENRY WILLIAM GOODWYN,

MILFORD LODGE.

INTRODUCTION

THIS account of the GOODWYNS has been obtained from various sources: it was commenced with two objects, firstly, to place on record particulars as to the descent of this old Norfolk family; and secondly, with a view to register dates, and other matters of interest regarding its numerous branches, before the circumstances themselves had quite passed away from memory, and been succeeded by the events turning the wheel of life in the present generation.

It will be found that, in addition to the name of GOODWYN, this account embraces some particulars of the old families of

HUTCHINSON,
SPELMAN,
CARY,
DRYDEN,
GORDON,
MARRIOTT,
ENDERBY,

and many others; and the compiler trusts, that should errors and omissions exist, which doubtless they do, they will be pardoned, in consideration of the great difficulties experienced in obtaining the necessary information concerning old friends and dear friends long passed away.

That valuable work, BLOMFIELD'S History of Norfolk, has proved of inestimable service in this research, as also have Dr. P. WYNTER'S edition of Bishop Hall's Works, the History of Lynn by MACKERELL, and that by RICHARDS: it is also felt that sufficient thanks can hardly be given to the many kind friends who have so willingly rendered their aid; but above all the lamented Rev. H. S. MARRIOTT, late rector of Felsham, Suffolk, requires special mention, for without his assistance in the early stages of this enquiry the task would have been hopeless.

It may be interesting to some of those concerned, to learn that many of the facts recorded are extracted from an old family Bible, in which the first entries of names are found to date as far back as "Lynn Regis, 1699", now close upon two centuries ago.

Attention should be called to the fact, that in the above named books of reference, as well as on some tombstones, and in several certificates of death, the name of GOODWYN is found spelt in no less than eleven different ways, often referring to the same person.

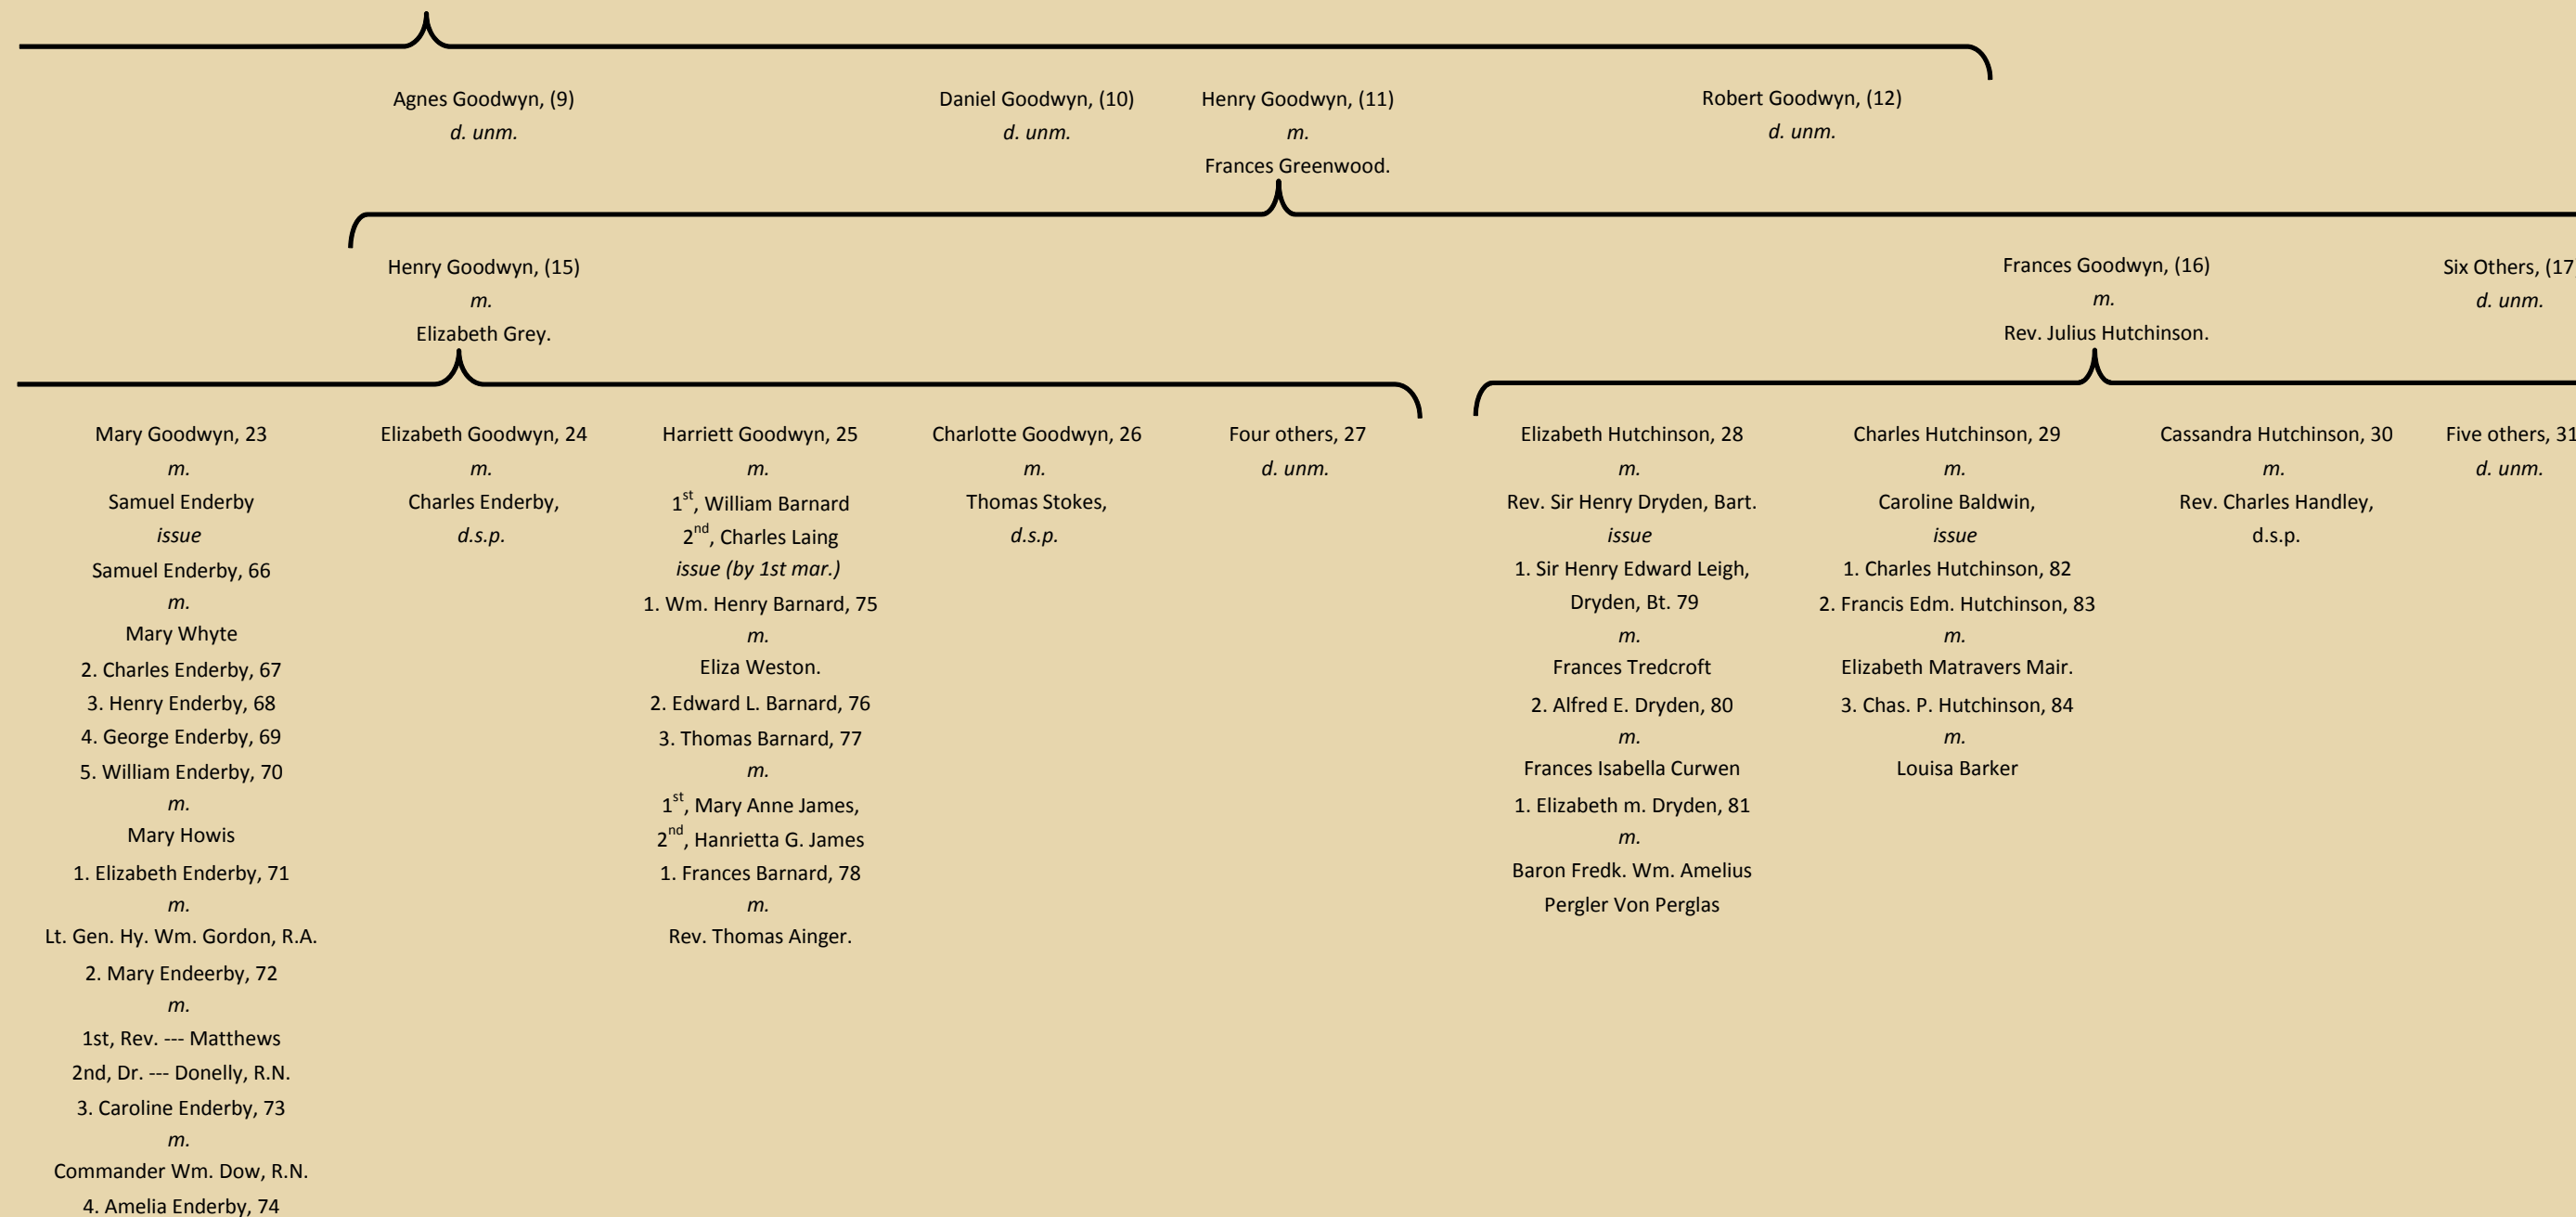

In conclusion, should these pages meet with favourable consideration at the hands of those for whom they are intended, it might, at some future day, become a pleasure to revise them; for which purpose the compiler will be grateful for information, corrections, and hints, from those who feel interested in the matter.

H. W. GOODWYN.

(See Notes A & D.)

13. Harwick, Elizabeth, dau. of Ann Harwick⁶; m. 23rd Aug. 1770, John Cary, jun. Esq., Alderman of Lynn, who died 11th Nov. 1807, his wife dying 20th July 1816. The father of Mr. John Cary was three times Mayor of the ancient borough of Lynn, where his family had resided since leaving London at the time of the Great Fire in 1666. The ancient family of Cary derives its name from the manor of Cary, or Kari, as it is called in the Domesday Book, situated in the parish of St. Giles-in-the-Heath, near Launceston. An ancestor, namely Sir Robert Cary, Knight, gave a proof of his great prowess in arms by the following exploit:

In the reign of Henry V. a Knight-errant of Arragon, having performed many feats of arms in divers countries, arrived in England, and challenged any man of his rank to make trial of his skill in battle; this challenge being accepted by Sir Robert Cary, a long combat ensued in Smithfield, where the Arragonois was vanquished, for which the King authorised the conqueror to bear the arms of the Knight of Arragon; for according to the laws of heraldry, whosoever fairly in the field conquers his adversary, bears his arms. The house of Cary therefore bears, to this day "in a field, silver, on a bend, sa, three white roses," being the arms worn that day by the vanquished Knight. See BURKE'S Landed Gentry, vol. i, page 217. The original portrait in oils of John Cary, sen., who was Mayor of Lynn in the years 1740, 1754, and 1765, is in the possession of Major H. W. Goodwyn⁶², of Milford Lodge, near Lymington, Hants.

NOTES

- A It is a circumstance worthy of remark, that in the reign of Henry IV, in the year 1403, the living of Warham, Norfolk, was held by John Godwyne, who was presented to it by Lady Joan, relict of Sir Stephen de Hales; and that on the 10th Feb. 1789, our great-great-uncle Robert Goodwyn¹², died Rector of that parish ; having been presented to it in 1749, by an old friend of his family, Sir John Turner, Bart., Alderman of Lynn.

See BLOMFIELD'S History of Norfolk, edition 1808, vol. ix. page 266.

These circumstances, unimportant as they may seem, induce the compiler to draw the inference that, as in the reign of Henry IV, the presentation of this living was vested in the family of Sir Stephen de Hales, and that right exercised in favor of a Godwyne, doubtless a friend of that family; so, as this right of presentation descended to the Turner family, the old friendship for the family of Godwyne or Goodwyn having CONTINUED Through three hundred years, that right was in the 18th century again exercised BY SIR JOHN Turner, in favor of Robert, the son of his intimate friend and brother alderman, John Goodwyn⁴, to whom he gave the living of Warham, as a parting gift at the end of his mayoralty in 1749, when he was succeeded in the civic chair by his valued old friend.

It perhaps renders this circumstance the more curious, that in the 15th century J. Godwyne was Rector of Warham; R. Goodwyn being then Mayor of Lynn; and in the 18th century J. Goodwyn was Mayor of Lynn, and R. Goodwyn Rector of Warham.

HOLT, NORFOLK.

- B. Holt, in the Saxon tongue, signifies a wood, from which it is probable this parish derives its name. Of its church (St. Andrew's), in the year 1375, William Goodwyn was Rector, having been presented to it by the Lady Alice de Nerford, Lady Nevill. See BLOMFIELD'S History of Norfolk, edition 1808, vol ix, page 399.

NORTH BURLINGHAM, NORFOLK.

- C In this parish there existed, during the reign of Henry VIII, a manor called Goodwyn's, being a message of sixty acres, forty of which were pasturage; and in the parish church of South Burlingham, A.D. 1518, was buried Ralph Goodwyn, described as of North Burlingham. See BLOMFIELD'S History of Norfolk, edition 1807, vol. vii, pages 224 and 226.

CLIPPESBY, NORFOLK.

- D St. Peter's Church: in the year 1742 Robert Goodwyn¹², our great-great-uncle, was Rector of it, having been presented by our great-great-grandfather, John Goodwyn, Alderman of Lynn. In the year 1749 the Rev. Robert Goodwyn resigned this living on being presented to that of Warham. See BLOMFIELD'S History of Norfolk, edition 1810, vol xi, page 163.

TWYFORD, NORFOLK.

- E St. Nicholas Church: A.D. 1349 Richard Godwyne was Rector of this parish, having been presented to the living by John de Foxley. See BLOMFIELD'S History of Norfolk, edition 1808, vol. viii, page 283.

STAUNTON HALL, NOTTS.

- F The family of the Rev. Francis Staunton³⁸ is of great antiquity, dating back in Nottinghamshire to the time of Edward the Confessor. It has an old pedigree in rhyme, by Robert Cade, consisting of between one and two hundred verses, and quoting the epitaphs from the church.

An old custom still exists, respecting Staunton's Tower, to the effect that when the Royal Family of England visits the locality, the head of the Staunton family, in person, presents the key of that ancient stronghold. This ceremony was last observed in 1866, when the Prince of Wales was staying at Belvoir, the seat of the Duke of Rutland, and the Rev. Francis Staunton had the honour of presenting the key to His Royal Highness.

- G The family of Dryden⁷⁹ is a very old one in Northamptonshire. During the reign of Queen Elizabeth, Erasmus Dryden was Sheriff of that county; and on 16th November 1619, was created a Baronet; and having married Frances, daughter of William Wilkes, Esquire, of Warwickshire, had issue 3 sons; the youngest of whom, Erasmus, married Mary, daughter of Rev. Dr. John Pickering, and had issue 4 sons. The eldest, John Dryden, the poet, was born in 1631, and married Lady Elizabeth Howard, daughter of the Earl of Berkshire, and died in the year 1700, leaving issue. (See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage). On 17th November 1837, Sir Henry Edward Leigh Dryden, the present Baronet, succeeded his father as fourth Baronet; and on 24th March 1874, he succeeded, as 7th Baronet, his cousin, Sir Edward H. Page Turner. Educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, (M.A.), J.P. & D.L. for Northamptonshire, of which county he was High Sheriff, 1844. He is Patron of one living.

- H The family of Rev. Julius Hutchinson¹⁶, of Owthorpe, Notts, and Woodhall Park, Herts, dates back, in Yorkshire, to the early part of the reign of Henry III; and from it descended the distinguished in history, Colonel John Hutchinson, of Owthorpe, Governor of Nottingham Castle.

- I WILLIAM RICHARDS, M.A., in his History of Lynn, says, at page 910, vol. ii. — Mr. John Goodwin⁴, the Mayor, 1728, distinguished himself by setting down a stone cistern at the end of the Fish Shambles, and also endowing one of the Alms-houses in Broad Street, for one poor man, with two shillings a week.
And, at page 917— May 23, 1733, Edmund Harwick⁶, of Wiggshall St. Maries, to have his freedom, upon recommendation of Alderman John Goodwin⁴, he not having had a freeman chosen for his last Mayoralty, as hath been customed.

BLOMFIELD'S History of Norfolk (edition 1806, vol. iv, page 313) reports —

Y In the Church of St. Andrew the Apostle, Norwich, amongst the Communion plate, is a large Offering Dish, of 47 ounces weight: —

" Ex Dono Laurentij Goodwyn, Armigeri, hujus Civitatis nuper Praetoris. To do good and communicate forget not, A⁰ X^{TL} 1704."

There are also two noble Flagons, of his gift. One weighs above 59 ounces, and the other above 58. On each is this:—

" Altari Ecclesiae S^{TL} Andreae, in Civit. Norvic. Consecratum 1704."

The compiler, having received from the late Mrs. Thomas Cary an original impression of the book plate used by our great-great-uncle, Robert Goodwyn, in the year 1743, when Rector of Clippesby, Norfolk, has had it copied; and the plate in the cover of this pedigree is a facsimile of it, in all but the Christian name and date.
